

Department of Social and Political Sciences

Assistant Professor in Economic History

The Department of Social and Political Sciences at Bocconi University is inviting applications for a faculty position at Assistant Professor level in Economic History with an appointment beginning on September 1, 2019. The area of specialization is economic and social history. The ideal candidate does high-quality research on long-term historical processes, including those characterizing the preindustrial period, and has at least some demonstrable ability to work with primary (archival) sources.

Bocconi University is a leading European research and teaching institution in economics, social sciences, management and related disciplines. The Department of Social and Political Sciences has a major role in staffing an undergraduate program in International Politics and Government, and master's programs in Politics, Public Policy, and Economic and Social Sciences. The successful candidate is expected to teach at both the undergraduate and graduate level.

Bocconi provides an ideal interdisciplinary research environment. The Department of Social and Political Sciences combines faculty from several allied disciplines and fields of study—public administration, political science, sociology, economics, history, public health, demography—who share an interest policy-relevant research. The Department counts 60 tenured or tenure-track faculty members. Bocconi is located in Italy's most vibrant center, Milan, a historic, cosmopolitan and international city in a metropolitan area of 3 million that is well connected to the rest of Europe and the world.

Knowledge of Italian is not required. Applicants should hold or expect a PhD in economic history, economics or equivalent before September 1, 2019. The successful applicant will have to demonstrate strong potential in research. Terms of employment are competitive.

Applications should be received by January 10th, 2019 via the on-line form using PDF attachments at www.unibocconi.eu/jobmarket. Candidates may be interviewed or invited to give a job talk at Bocconi. To ensure full consideration, applicants must submit: a. a scientific curriculum; b. titles, publications and documents which the candidates intend to submit for this evaluation; c. the name of at least three highly qualified academic referees. The letters should be sent by the referees no later than January 17th 2018 via www.unibocconi.eu/jobmarket.

Bocconi University is committed to increasing the diversity of its faculty. Applications are particularly welcome from women and members of groups who are under-represented in academic posts.